

Programm AG 4: The Syntax and Semantics of Particles

Tag	Uhrzeit	Sprecher/In
Mi.5.3.	14-15	Hans-Martin Gärtner (invited speaker): Modal Particles and Root Infinitives
	15-15.30	Urtzi Etxeberria & Aritz Irurtzun: An experimental test of the effects of focus in generating scalar meanings in Basque
	15.30-16	Daniel Gutzmann: Modal particles aren't modal particles (are modal particles). Towards a semantic analysis of variation amongst modal particles in German.
	16.30-17	Markus Egg & Johannes Mursell: On the syntax and semantics of discourse particles
	17-17.30	Roland Hinterhölzl & Nicola Munaro: Modal particles and speech acts
	17.30-18	Philippa Cook: Peripheral modifiers of Noun Phrase in German
	18-18.30	Malte Zimmermann: Wird schon stimmen! A unified analysis of modal and aspectual 'schon' as scale aligners
Do. 6.3.	9-9.30	Anna Cardinaletti (invited speaker): Modal particles and marked word orders
	9.30-10	Pierre-Yves Modicom: Focus Particles beyond Information Structure: Small particle phrases and contrast-sensitivity
	10-10.30	Andreas Trotzke: Left peripheral particles, successive-cyclic movement, and emphasis
	10.30-11	Theresa Biberauer: Particles, peripherality and the Final-over-Final Constraint
	11-30-12	Sonja Müller: On the (allegedly) fixed order of modal particles: combining "ja" and "doch"
	12-12.30	Nathalie Scherf: Two Groups of Swedish Modal Particles
	12.30-13	Jóhannes Gísli Jónsson: Discourse particles in hvað-exclamatives
Fr. 7.3.	11.30-12-30	Werner Abraham: Strong modality and truth disposability in syntactic subordination: What is the locus of the phase edge validating modal adverbials?
	12.30-13	Svetlana Petrova: Left-peripheral modal particles in Older Germanic?
	13-13.30	Sonja Thoma: Bavarian Discourse Particles – Grounding the Utterance
	13.30-14	Rosemarie Lühr: Betonte und unbetonte Partikeln in altindogermanischen Sprachen